

Reconstruction Agency

(Functions)

The Reconstruction Agency is the principal agency of the Government of Japan tasked with leading and managing the reconstruction process following the March 11, 2011 Great East Japan Earthquake.

The Agency's role covers: 1) planning, coordination and implementation of national policies on reconstruction, and, 2) serving as the "control tower" for coordination of reconstruction activities and cooperation with local governments.